1872.

DUBLIN:
PRINTED BY M. H. GILL,
Printer to the Academy.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY HOUSE,
Dublin, 27th July, 1872.

THE present part of LEABHAR BREAC has been executed on the system initiated in the Academy's edition of LEABHAR NA H-UIDHRI, issued in 1870.

Mr. JOSEPH O'LONGAN, of the Academy's Department of Irish Manuscripts, has reproduced the text in close conformity to the original, with which the lithographic copy has been revised and collated by him in conjunction with B. O'LOONEY, M.R.I.A. No alterations or emendations have been admitted; obliterations or fractures in the original are indicated by equivalent spaces, with numbers between brackets.

The second part of LEABHAR BREAC is in progress. With it will be issued conclusion of Table of Contents, description of the original manuscript, indices and colored fac-similes. The edition of LEABHAR BREAC is limited to two hundred copies.

J. T. GILBERT, M. R. I. A.,
Librarian of the Academy.

XXXV. Page [75], col. 2, line 41 :—

imrordus in rigraid—" I celebrate the kingly host." Eighty stanzas styled (p. [75], col. 1, line 30), brolach thoisech in felire—" first preface to the Felire." In these, the author tells of the tortures and sufferings of the early Christian Martyrs; how the names of the persecutors are forgotten while their victims are remembered with honour, veneration, and affection; how Pilate's wife is forgotten, and the Virgin Mary is remembered and honoured from the uttermost bounds of the earth to its centre. Even in our own country, says the poet, the enduring supremacy of the Church of Christ is made manifest; for Tara has become abandoned and deserted under the vain-glory of its kings, while great Ard Macha remains the populous seat of dignity, piety, and learning; the pride and pomp of the monarch Laeghaire are extinguished, while Patrick's name continues to shine with lustre; Cruachan, the royal residence of the kings of Connaught, is deserted, while Cluanmicnois resounds with the dashing of chariots and the tramp of multitudes, in honour of the shrine of Ciaran; the royal palace of Aillinn, in Leinster, has passed away, while the church of Brigit, at Cilldara, remains in dazzling splendour; Emania, the royal palace of the Ultonians, has disappeared, while the holy Coemgin's church at Gleanndalocha remains in full glory."

XXXVI. Page [78], col. 2, line 7 :—

re sil dálach—" With the race of Dalach." A prose explanation of the words re sil dálach, which form the link between the first preface and the body of the Felire.

re sil dalach doine—" With the multitudinous race of men." Main poem called (page [105], top margin) corp in félire—" body of the Felire," divided into twelve monthly parts. The circumcision of Christ is placed at the head of the festivals; with it the poem opens and continues to page [102], in the following order :—

XXXVIII. Page [103], top:—

On ḟalind co araile—"From one kalend to another." This is the last of the Felire series, styled (p. [75], col. 1, line 52), brolach deġdinach in félire, the final or appended preface of the Felire. It consists of one hundred and forty stanzas. In these, Oengus explains the arrangement of his work, directs the faithful how to read and use it, and says that, though great the number of saints in it, he has only been able to enumerate the princes of them. He recommends it to the pious study of the faithful, and points out the spiritual benefits to be gained by reading or reciting it; he says that he travelled far and near to collect the names and the history of the subjects of his praise and invocation; that for the foreign saints he has consulted Ambrose, Jerome, and Eusebius; and that from "the countless hosts of illuminated books of Erin" he collected the festivals of the Irish saints. He then says, that, having already mentioned and invoked the saints at their respective festival days, he will now invoke them in classes or bands, under certain heads or leaders; and this he does in the following order:—The Archangels, under Michael; the elders or ancients, under Noah; the prophets, under Isaiah; the patriarchs, under Abraham; the apostles and disciples, under Peter; the wise or learned men, under Paul; the martyrs, under Stephen; the anchorites, under old Paul; the virgins of the world, under the Blessed Virgin Mary; the holy bishops of Rome, under Peter; the bishops of Jerusalem, under Jacob; the bishops of Antioch, also under old Peter; the bishops of Alexandria, under Mark; a division of them under Honorat; a division of learned men, under the gifted Benedict; all the innocents who suffered at Bethlehem, under Georgius; the priests, under Aaron; the monks, under Anthony; a division of the saints of the world, under Martin; the noble saints of Erin, under Patrick; the saints of Alba [Scotland], under Colum Cille; and the last great division of the saintly virgins of Erin, under holy Brigit of Cilldara. He then beseeches the mercy of the Saviour for himself and all mankind, through the merits and sufferings of the saints whom he has named and enumerated, through the merits of their dismembered bodies pierced with lances, their wounds, their groans, their relics, their blanched countenances, their bitter tears; through all the sacrifices offered of the Saviour's body and blood, as it is in Heaven upon the holy altars; through the blood that flowed from the Saviour's side; through his humanity; and through his divinity, in unity with the Holy Spirit and the Heavenly Father. Oengus adds, that the brethren of his order deemed all his prayers and petitions too meagre;—whereupon, he says, that he will change his course, so that no one may have cause to complain. He then commences another appeal to our Lord, for himself and all men, beseeching mercy according to the merciful worldly interposition of the divine mercy in the times past—such as the saving of Enoch and Elias from the dangers of the world; of Noah from the Deluge; of Abraham from the plagues and from the hand of the Chaldeans; of Lot from the burning city; of Jonas from the whale; of Isaac from the hands of his father. He beseeches Jesus, through the intercession of his mother, to save him as Jacob was saved from the hands of his brother, as John [Paul] was saved from the venom of the viper. He returns to the examples of the Old Testament, beginning with the saving of David from the sword of Goliath; of Susanna from her dangers; of Nineveh in time of plague; of the Israelites from Mount Gilba [Gilboa]; of Daniel from the lions' den; of Moses from the hands of Faro [Pharaoh]; of the three youths from the fiery furnace; of Tobias from his blindness; of Peter and Paul from the dungeon; of Job from the demoniacal tribulations; of David from Saul; of Joseph from the hands of his brethren; of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage; of Peter from the waves of the sea; of John from the fiery caldron; of Samson from the perils of the city; of Martin from the priests of the idol. Oengus beseeches Jesus again, through the intercession of the Heavenly household, to save him as he saved Patrick from poisoned drink at Tara, and Coemgin of Gleanndalocha from the perils of the mountain, etc.

aibind suide sund amne re taeb eoire uar glaine—"Delightful to sit alone here, by the side of the cold clear [river] Nore." Twelve quatrains on Oengus Mac Oiblen, or Céle Dé.

XL. Page [106], col. 2, line 53:—

IRISH MSS.

THE accurate study and critical investigation of the ancient literary and historic monuments of Ireland have hitherto been impeded by the circumstance that the oldest and most important Irish Manuscripts in their integrity were available only to those who could visit the places of their deposit, no fac-similes having been published of their entire texts.

With a view of supplying this acknowledged want, and of placing beyond risk of destruction the contents of Manuscripts, which are regarded as unique monuments of the ancient native literature of Ireland, the publication has been undertaken of carefully collated lithographic copies of the oldest Irish texts in the collection of the Royal Irish Academy.

LEABHAR NA H-UIDHRI;

A COLLECTION OF ANCIENT PIECES IN PROSE AND VERSE, IN THE IRISH LANGUAGE,

Compiled and transcribed about A.D. 1100,

Now for the first time Published, from the original in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy; with an account of the Manuscript, a description of its contents, an index, and fac-similes in colors.

LEABHAR NA H-UIDHRI, the oldest volume now known entirely in the Irish language, is regarded as the chief native literary monument—not ecclesiastical—of Ireland. The following notice of it is from O'CURRY's "Lectures on the Manuscript Materials of early Irish History":—

"The first of these ancient books that merits notice, because it is the oldest, is that which is known by the name of LEABHAR NA H-UIDHRI, or the Book of the Dun Cow.

"Of the original compiler and writer of Leabhar na h-Uidhri, I have been able to learn nothing more than a brief and melancholy notice of his death in the Annals of the Four Masters, at the year 1106. A memorandum, in the original hand, at the top of folio 45, clearly identifies the writer of the book with the person whose death is recorded in the passage in the Annals.

"The contents of the MS., as they stand now, are of a mixed character, historical and romantic, and relate to the ante-Christian, as well as the Christian period. The book begins with a fragment of the Book of Genesis, part of which was always prefixed to the Book of Invasions (or ancient Colonization) of Erinn, for genealogical purposes.

"This is followed by a fragment of the history of the Britons, by Nennius, translated into Gaedhlic by Gilla Caomhain, the poet and chronologist, who died A.D. 1072.

"The next important piece is the very ancient elegy, written by the poet Dallan Forgaill, on the death of Saint Colum Cille, in the year 592.

"The elegy is followed by fragments of the ancient historic tale of the Mesca Uladh, [or Inebriety of the Ultonians,] who, in a fit of excitement after a great feast at the royal palace of Emania, made a sudden and furious march into Munster, where they burned the palace of Teamhair Luachra, in Kerry, then the residence of Curoi Mac Daire, king of West Munster. This tract abounds in curious notices in topography, as well as in allusions to and descriptions of social habits and manners.

"Next come fragments of Táin Bó Dartadha, and the Táin Bó Flidais; both Cattle Spoils, arising out of the celebrated Cattle Spoil of Cuailgne. Next comes the story of the wanderings of Maeldun's ship in the Atlantic. for three years and seven months, in the eighth century. These are followed by imperfect copies of: the Táin Bó Chuailgne, or great Cattle Spoil of Cuailgne; the Bruighean Da Dearga, and death of the monarch Conaire Mór; a history of the great pagan cemeteries of Erinn, and of the various old books from which this and other pieces were compiled; poems by Flann of Monasterboice and others; together with various other pieces of history and historic romance, chiefly referring to the ante-Christian period, and especially that of the Tuatha Dé Danann. This most valuable MS. belongs to the Royal Irish Academy."

LEABHAR BREAC,

THE SPECKLED BOOK;

Otherwise styled Leabhar Mór Dúna Doighre, the Great Book of Dun Doighre: a collection of pieces in Irish and Latin, compiled from ancient sources, towards the close of the fourteenth century.

Now for the FIRST TIME PUBLISHED, from the Original Manuscript in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy.

With Description of the Manuscript, Table of Contents, Indices, and Fac-similes in colors.

LEABHAR BREAC is noticed as follows in PROFESSOR O'CURRY'S Lectures on the Manuscript Materials of Ancient Irish History:—

"We have in the course of these lectures often had occasion to refer to an ancient Gaedhlic MS., generally called Leabhar Breac, or Speckled Book, preserved in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy; and as it is in itself a composition of great interest and importance, and as we shall often have occasion to refer to it, it seems to me that a brief general notice of it will be appropriate here.

"The proper name of this book is Leabhar Mór Dúna Doighre, or the great book of Dún Doighre.

"Dún Doighre was the name of a place on the Galway side of the River Shannon, some distance below the present town of Athlone, where the great literary family of the MacÆgans had, from time immemorial, kept schools of law, poetry, and literature. This book appears to have been written by some member of that learned family about the close of the fourteenth century. It is not a transcript of any one book, but, as will be seen, a compilation from various ancient books, preserved chiefly in the churches and monasteries of Connacht, Munster, and Leinster.

"The volume is written in a most beautiful style of penmanship on fine large folio vellum. The contents are all, with one exception, of a religious character; and all, or nearly all, in the purest style of Gaedhlic. Many of the tracts are translations and narratives from the Latin. Among these are found a Scripture narrative from the Creation to Solomon; the birth, life, passion, and resurrection of our Lord; and the lives, and manner of death of several of the apostles; various versions of the finding of the Cross, etc. There are, besides these, several pieces, ancient sermons or homilies for certain days and periods of the year—such as sermons for Lent, Palm Sunday, Easter Sunday, Pentecost, on the institution of the Holy Eucharist, and others of a similar kind. In these sermons the Scripture text is always given in Latin, and then freely and copiously expounded and commented on in pure Gaedhlic; and in the course of these expositions various commentators are often mentioned and quoted. Besides these sermons, there are many small tracts on moral subjects, illustrative of the divine teachings of our Lord. St. Sechnall's Hymn, in praise of his uncle St. Patrick, is also to be found there; as well as the celebrated Altus of St. Colum Cille; a Lorica by Gildas (who is believed to have been a Saxon saint); etc., etc.

"Among the original Irish tracts in the Leabhar Mór Dúna Doighré, are found Pedigrees of the Irish Saints, compiled it is believed by Aengus Céile Dé, at the close of the eighth century, as well as his celebrated Litany of the Irish Saints; ancient abstracts of the lives of Saints Patrick, Colum Cille, and Brigid of Kildare; a curious historical legend of Cathal Mac Finghuine, king of Munster in the eighth century, of Mac Conglinne, the poet, and of the abbot of St. Finnbarr's monastery at Cork; the martyrology of Aengus Céle Dé, written chiefly at Tamlacht (or Tallaght, in the County of Dublin), before the year 798; ancient copies and expositions of the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments; ancient rules of discipline of the religious order of the Céle Dé, vulgarly called Culdees; ancient Litanies and Liturgies, monastic Rules, Canons, sacred Loricas, and countless other articles of the same tendency,—among them an ancient rule and law for the observance of Sunday, or the Lord's day. The Leabhar Mór Dúna Dóighre contains also a Life of Alexander the Great, remarkable as being copied from the ancient Book of the celebrated St. Berchán of Cluain Sosta (or Clonsost), who flourished so early as the seventh century.

"But to enter into more minute details of the contents of this curious and important volume, would carry me beyond my present purpose. Compiled, as it was, from many and most ancient sources, the Leabhar Mór Dúna Doighre is the most important repertory of our ancient ecclesiastical and theological writings in existence."
